SUMMER TRAVEL ON THE AIRWAYS

WHAT THE NEW TIME-TABLES WILL PROVIDE

"Land-Sea-Air" Trips

The summer time-tables of the European airways came into operation on April 19th.

Imperial Airways, during the summer season, will provide four services a day in each direction between London and Paris. There will also be three services on weekdays to Brussels, four to Cologne, and two daily, except Sunday, between London and Switzerland.

The Swiss service will be scheduled to fly non-stop between London and Basle. There will also be non-stop services from London to Cologne.

Express air-liners will bring Prague, Vienna, Budapest, and Brindisi within a day's flying of London.

"The air-line system of Europe," explained an official of Imperial Airways, "now comprises approximately 30 companies operating over more than 60,000 miles of routes, and this summer's programmes are the most comprehensive so far introduced, enabling air connections to be provided from London to roughly 200 towns and cities on the continent."

BEST EQUIPPED

"This summer fleets of luxuriously-equipped air-liners will be at the disposal of those who want to go as far as they can, and see as much as they can, in any given period of time. Connections will be established between the system of British inland airways and the main continental and Empire routes. As an example of the inter-connection between British and continental air services, passengers leaving Manchester at 10 a.m. will establish connections at the London air-port which will enable them to reach Paris by 2.45 p.m., Brussels at 3 p.m., and Cologne by 4 p.m., the same afternoon."

"The daily express service to Switzerland will bring that country within three hours of London, and air-taxis are to be available on Swiss aerodromes which will enable visitors, in a flight lasting from half to three quarters of an hour, to obtain splendid bird's eye views of the Alps."

"An hour's flying will take holiday-makers from London to Le Touquet, while many facilities are to be provided in combined week-end trips by air and land. Leaving London on Friday evening, one will be able to fly to Germany, enjoy special steamer excursions up the Rhine, and be back in London by Sunday evening. Similar trips, in which air and land transport are combined, will enable week-end parties to make air-and-rail excursions along the Belgian coast; while in an air holiday lasting about a week it will be possible to make flights right round Europe, with ample time on the ground for incidental sight-seeing."

"A fortnight's air cruise will enable trips by flying-boat to be made to and fro over the Mediterranean, and for those with more time at their disposal there will be combined excursions in which part of the journey will be made

THE LIGHTING OF AERODROMES

One of the latest of London's terminal aerodromes, Gatwick, is replete with every lighting device for night-flying operations, most of them having been supplied by the General Electric Co., Ltd., England, which has been responsible for the lighting equipment for many of the principal aerodromes in Britain, as well as in Egypt, India and elsewhere on the Empire air routes.

In the main, the equipment at Gatwick is similar to that installed at Croydon and comprises a Neon beacon and beacon tower, wind indicator, boundary and obstruction lights and poles, cables, switchgear and controlling apparatus, Osram lamps, etc.

At the new Brighton, Hove and Worthing Municipal Airport at Shoreham there is a 9-kw. three-tube portable landing floodlight equipped with Osram horizon lamps, which can be moved to various parts of the aerodromes to enable pilots to land from behind it. The floodlight is moved by tractor and is connected to various plug points on the ring main underground supply system. A G.E.C. illuminated wind tee indicator is also installed. This has 20 ft. cross arms, and on its upper surface are mounted forty 25-watt Osram lamps enclosed in weatherproof glasses for indicating purposes.

by air-liner and part by ocean liner. In this way one can fly across Africa, obtaining air views of forests, deserts, and wild life in its natural surroundings, and then return by sea in one of the liners leaving Cape Town for England.

"Specially-arranged land-sea-air excursions are an increasingly popular feature in holiday travel. Itineraries are becoming available in which one can start by train, continue by motor-coach, then change from land to air and fly hundreds of miles; afterwards changing from air-liner to river-

BRITAIN'S NEW AIR FLEET

Fastest Single-Engined Bomber

A substantial order for a new type of bomber for the British Royal Air Force is at present being executed, and delivery of the machines will begin in the summer.

The new aircraft, designed and built by the Fairey Aviation Co., Ltd., is known as the "Battle" and will be the fastest single-engined bomber in the R.A.F. It is fitted with a 12-cylinder V-shaped liquid-cooled Rolls-Royce "Merlin" engine, developing a very high horse-power. The exact horse-power must not be revealed, but it may be stated that the engine possesses greater power than any at present in use in the service. No speed figures can be given, but it is understood that slightly over ten minutes after leaving the Fairey aerodrome at Hayes, Middlesex, the "Battle" could be over the South Coast of England.

The new machine is officially described as an ultra high-speed two-seater medium bomber; it is a low wing monoplane, with retractable undercarriage and tail-wheel, all-metal, with the exception of the rudder, ailerons and the elevators, which are fabric covered. It embodies the very latest developments in stressed skin construction. The fuselage is of "Monocoque" construction and is riveted in a manner similar to that of a modern liner.

The cockpit, which is occupied by the pilot and observer, is enclosed by a glass covering, giving the occupants an all-round view.

beat or car, or to the saloons of an ocean liner. It is such combined itineraries, carefully planned to provide accurately-timed connections, which are opening up the wonders and beauties of long-distance travel in a way never possible before."

AVIATION NOTES

From Far And Near

PROJECT IS DELAYED

It is learnt that the projected Sian-Chengtu Airway can not be inaugurated until the completion of the aerodrome at Hanchung, southern Shensi. To expedite the work of construction, Lieut.-General Sun Wei-ju, Commander of the 38th Army, has assigned one company of soldiers to assist in the work.

NEW AIR LINES

The Tokyo Ministry of Communications has decided to begin work on two air-mail and passenger lines connecting Tokyo and Palao and Fukuoka with Taihoku. The new lines will connect Japan, proper, with insular possessions and also islands in the mandated group in the South Seas. Douglas planes will be used for the new routes.

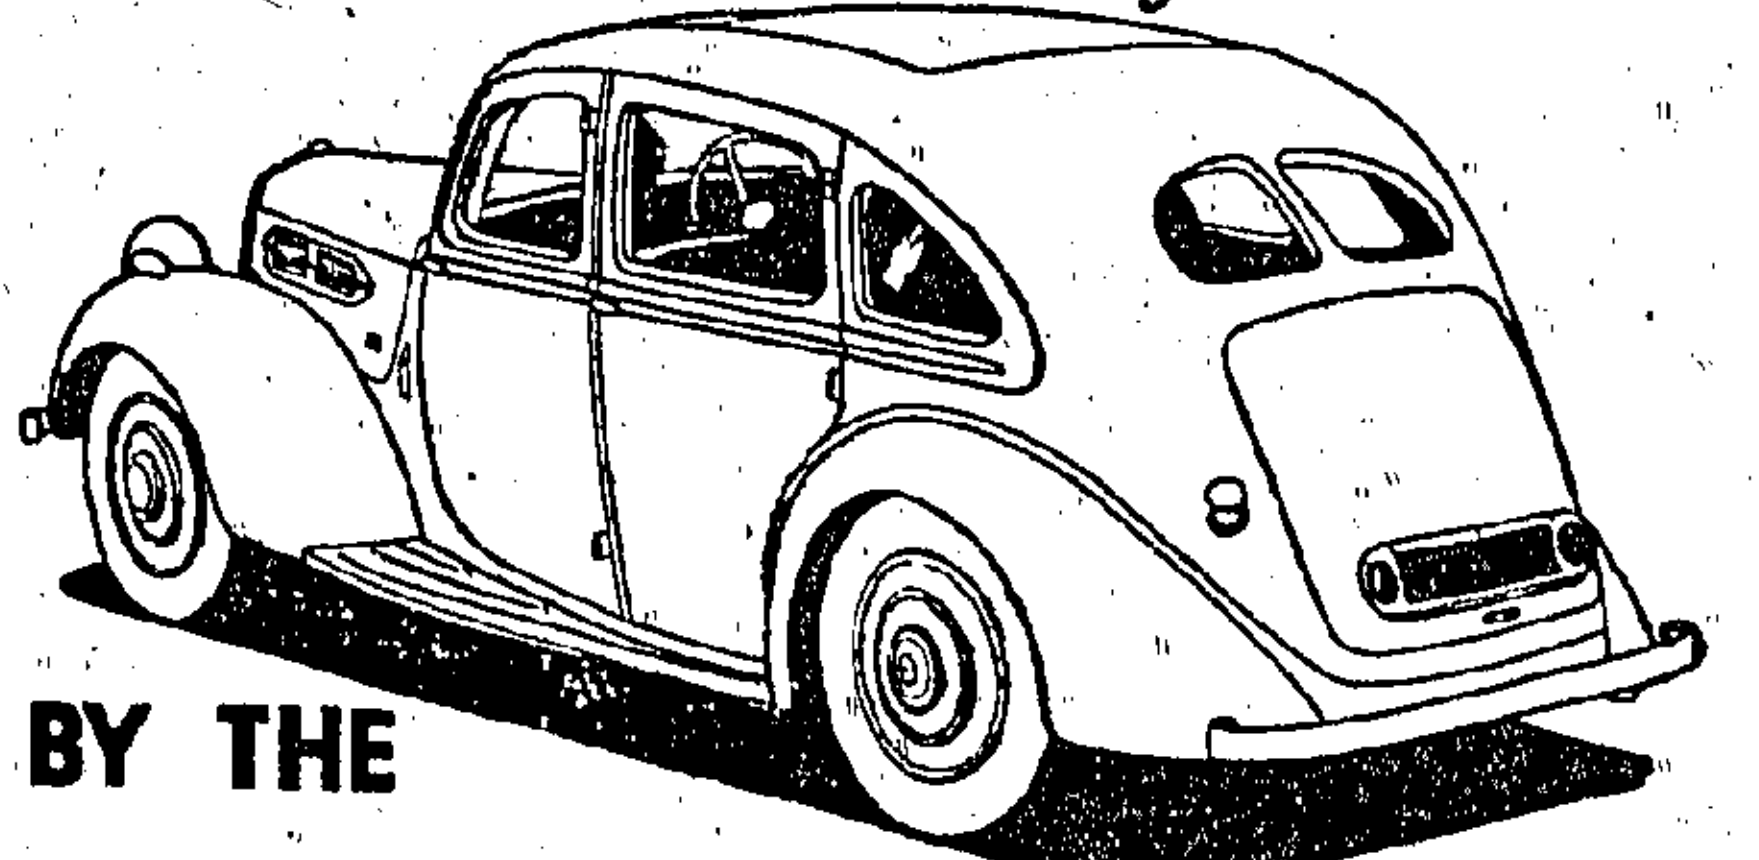

EXTEND AIR LINE

The Canton Municipal authorities are planning to establish a civil aerodrome in Honam Island, opposite Canton city. The South-western Aviation Corporation has decided to extend, as from August 15, its Canton-Hai-nan Airway from Pakhoi, south-western Kwangtung, to Nanning, provincial capital of Kwangsi, so as to link up with the Canton-Lungchow Line.

DESIGNS MONOPLANE

A two-seater long-range monoplane, similar in appearance to the famous British (De Havilland) Comet, has been designed and built at Bandoeng, near Batavia. The Walraven 2 as the type of aircraft is called, has a top speed (according to Fokker Aircrafts, Ltd. of Rochester, two of whose 90-hp. Niagara engines are used) of 150 m.p.h. Its cruising speed is 137 m.p.h. Its range is 1,100 miles.

DRIVING TESTS

PERCENTAGE OF FAILURES JUSTIFIES THEIR IMPOSITION

Figures given by the Minister of Transport last week in the House of Commons are ample justification for the imposition of the driving tests which became operative almost a year ago. Of the 234,394 candidates who have presented themselves no fewer than 34,744 have failed to pass—a percentage of 15.2. Since the test is by no means excessively severe, these figures are impressive, for they mean the temporary exclusion from the full freedom of the road of a very large number of potentially exceedingly dangerous persons.

The imposition of driving tests has, in our opinion, done more than merely ensure some degree of skill in the handling of motor cars by new drivers; it has impressed upon a good many of those who have not had to take the test the fact that there may be more than they thought in the driving of a car. The greater the attention directed to the subject of driving—the more "driving conscious" the community becomes—the greater is the chance that the more egregious mistakes and lapses will be avoided.

When the tests were first suggested "The Autocar" expressed the view that the thing to examine was the candidate's knowledge "and understanding" of the Highway Code rather than his or her ability to steer a car. We still adhere to that opinion. A clever—in the sense of skill with steering wheel and brakes—driver may be able to extricate himself safely from a tight corner into which he should never have got; what we wish to encourage is the driver who, acting on the precepts of the Highway Code, never gets into the tight corner.

"Your husband," said the doctor, "is too fond of strong coffee. You must not let him have it. He gets too excited."

"Yes, but doctor," protested the wife, "you should see how excited he gets when I give him weak coffee."

MOTOR JOTTINGS

BRAKE ADJUSTMENTS

Supervision Necessary In Wet Weather

Recently several cases have occurred of brake adjustments being found to be imperative owing to being rusted up. This trouble is not likely to be found out until it is necessary to use the adjustment in order to improve the action of the brakes. Therefore, although the weather is likely, in the natural course of things, to improve with the approach of spring, it may well be that many other cases of this trouble will still be brought to light.

The reason advanced by some repairers for the trouble is that the winter has been an unusually wet one, and that in some districts cars have had to negotiate flooded stretches of road, with the result that water has been thrown up round the brake drums and brake gear to an exceptional extent. If, therefore, one's car has been used during very wet weather it will be wise to examine the brake adjustments in order to see that they are not seized up with rust, and, to take steps to free them if they should be found to be in bad condition. This may, in some cases, entail withdrawing the brake drums, but as the adjustments must be freed sooner or later it is well to undertake the task without further delay.

It might also be wise to give a little extra attention to the lubrication of steering joints, although if these have been kept properly lubricated they should not have suffered from flooded roads. Lubrication of steering knuckles might also be verified, as they, too, are susceptible to mud and water. In connection with such chassis points it is a sound axiom that water cannot enter bearings if they are kept filled with grease.

FITTING-UP THE GARAGE

Proper Equipment For The Garage Which Will Soon Save The Initial Expense: Work Which Owners May Want To Do Themselves.

The acquisition of a car for the first time by a man who is fresh to the pursuits of motoring brings up automatically the question of the garage.

The personal circumstances of new car owners will vary enormously. Many newcomers have already in existence a garage attached to their houses, or space available for erecting one; others can rent vacant garages in the immediate neighbourhood. Others, again, have to make use of the local public garage.

EASE OF ACCESS TO THE CAR

With all this variety it is difficult to give any precise rules for the selection of a garage for the new owner, except that "ease of access to the car" is of prime importance, as otherwise the convenience of having a car is largely spoiled. Practically every motorist finds from later experience that when his car becomes dependent upon its availability at any time becomes of increasing importance. Hence there is need for some thought in arranging for a garage.

The subject of what a new owner can do in the motor house as soon as the car has taken up its quarters is, however, one on which a great deal of information could be given. The majority of owners will handle their cars themselves (as opposed to the few who have paid help in one form or another for the sake of economy). The precise amount of routine attention given to a car by the owner himself is a matter of convenience, as so much can be carried out at a service station, but it is certain there will be many who will make a habit of working on their cars in their own garages, when the building will assume the importance of something more than a mere lock-up.

From observation one can see many motor houses which have been properly fitted out for convenience and efficiency, while others have no facilities at all. Whatever the conditions, certain necessities, even if of only a simple nature, do make a considerable difference in the use of a building, and it frequently happens that the new owner is encouraged to add to the amenities as he gains experience.

HINTS TO THE UNINITIATED

On the assumption that the new owner of a car has had no previous experience in fixing up a garage in useful working order, the first point that needs settling is in regard to the doors, which should have hinged latches to hold them open in windy weather. Checks or wedges may be used, but are not so convenient or easy to handle as latches; since one may have to fumble for them in some awkward place on a dark, wet night. Means for securely fastening the doors are essential, or they may suddenly swing to with the wind on entry to the garage, with the result that grievous damage may be done to the bodywork or wings of the car.

As soon as the car is at a standstill in the motor house the usual practice is to ease off the brakes and check the front or rear wheels with something which will act as a stop. A most useful device for this purpose is a two-by-two length of wood roughly four or five inches square.

THE English doctor is the most conservative medical man in the world, and when he not only recommends but personally uses a remedy, there can be no more convincing proof of its efficacy. This doctor is but one of many who constantly advise the use of 'Bisurated' Magnesia in all cases of indigestion. Most stomach trouble is caused by acidity, and the reason why 'Bisurated' Magnesia gives quick relief is that it instantly neutralizes excess acid and soothes, heals and strengthens the inflamed stomach lining. Nothing could be simpler, safer or surer. If you suffer with indigestion or stomach disorder of any kind put your faith in European science and make an end of your troubles by taking 'Bisurated' Magnesia after eating or whenever pain is felt.

SAFETY GLASS

Risks From A Broken Windscreen Illustrated.

Mr. Justice Porter, in the King's Bench Division, dismissed a claim against the Triplex Safety Glass Co., Ltd., brought by Mr. Edmund Evans and his wife, of Kingston Hill, Surrey, who claimed damages for alleged negligence in the manufacture of a windscreen of a motor car.

Mr. Evans' case was that, driving at about 30 m.p.h., the toughened glass windscreen suddenly broke without apparent cause. Mrs. Evans, it was claimed, suffered severe shock as a result but there was no injury from cuts. Mr. Justice Porter said that the screen disintegrated into small fragments all over.

"The result is that, although you can see through the windscreen," he said, "you have to be careful while pulling up."

The judge said that the evidence showed that toughened glass could stand a greater degree of force and violence than could ordinary glass.

"One has three choices open in regard to the glass," said His Lordship. "You have to make choice of what risk you would like to take. If you take the ordinary plate glass you have the chance of having your throat cut and of bleeding to death or of being very badly cut in the case of an accident."

He then dealt with the properties of laminated glass.

Dealing with toughened glass, he said that many people might well choose to use toughened glass rather than take the risks which are necessarily involved in the use of the other types of glass.

The judge said the disintegration would be due to some damage done to the windscreen in the course of use rather than to an original fault in the manufacture.

He found that this glass as manufactured is reasonably safe and that it is fit for the purpose for which it is required; possibly more fit than other types of glass.

Judgment was accordingly given for the defendants, together also with costs.

NEW SOVIET PASSENGER AIRPLANES

Moscow, Mar. 16.

Civil aviation in the U.S.S.R. will be enriched this year, by the addition of several new types of airplanes, in the design of which all requirements of up-to-date passenger airplanes have been incorporated.

One of these airplanes, the "ARK-3," designed specially for flights in the Extreme North, is now undergoing tests at the plant. Its warm cabin can seat 10 passengers in addition to the pilot and mechanic, and carries a supply of food required for a long-distance flight. The "ARK-3" is powered by two air-cooled engines of 65 HP each.

Another high speed passenger airplane, the "ZIG-1," designed for service over the largest air lines of the U.S.S.R. will be completed in May, 1936. Its cabin will have seats for 12 passengers. Two powerful engines will ensure a cruising speed of 275 kilometers an hour.

A third airplane, the "STAL-7," also designed for service on the trunk air lines of the Soviet Union, will be ready in May. This airplane, powered by two large engines, is streamlined and has a retractable undercarriage.

The remodelling of the high-speed airplane "KHAL-1" is proceeding in Kharkov. The plane will be placed on service in June with the large airlines. The remodelled "KHAL-1" will carry 5 passengers and develop a speed of 320 kilometers an hour. (Tass Mail).

KEEPING THE GARAGE FLOOR CLEAN

Oil and grease are the worst substances to clean off concrete garage floors, but if a quantity of ordinary cement is sprinkled over the soiled patches and allowed to remain for several days it proves an effective remedy.

Simply use sufficient cement to cover well the soiled patch and brush up and re-lay every other day. Fresh oil or grease soiling can be dealt with in about a week, but old standing stains naturally need longer according to their duration.

GUARDS BACK IN BARRACKS

Old Coldstreamers At Exeter

London, Mar. 14.

Old Coldstreamers returned to barracks for one short night at Exeter on March 14. For a few brief hours they relived their Service experience of 20 and 30 years ago, and were able to compare Army conditions past and present.

From all parts of the West they had travelled to the Devon capital for the annual reunion dinner of the Westcountry branch of the Old Coldstreamers' Association, and many were unable to return to their homes the same evening owing to transport difficulties.

The Depot Devonshire Regiment, came to the rescue, and Maj. A. H. Cope (officer commanding) placed several beds in the barracks at the disposal of members. His offer was readily accepted.

It is understood that the O'd Coldstreamers found their sleeping accommodation a decided improvement on their previous Army experiences.

EXAMPLE TO THE REST OF THE BRIGADE

Saturday's reunion was one of the most successful of recent years. The numbers were augmented by officers and serving members of the Coldstream Guards, and among those present was the Colonel of the regiment, Lieut.-Gen. Sir Alfred Coddington.

Capt. Sir John Carew-Pole (president of the branch) presided.

In reply to a loyal message sent by the gathering to his Majesty King Edward, the following telegram was received:—

"To the President, Westcountry Branch, Old Coldstreamers' Association, Rougemont Hotel, Exeter.—The King sincerely thanks the Westcountry branch of the Old Coldstreamers' Association assembled at dinner for their loyal greetings, which his Majesty much appreciates. (Signed) Equerry."

Immediately following the loyal toast members paid silent tribute to the memory of their late Colonel-in-Chief, his Majesty King George V.

Submitting "The Regiment," Maj. E. T. H. Hanbury-Tracy, who joined the Coldstreamers in 1892, said he held what he believed to be a record, not only in the Coldstreamers, but in the whole Brigade of Guards. In being regimental adjutant for about eight years he had served under eight colonels. During that service he had been greatly impressed by the consistently high standard among officers and men, which had been an example to the rest of the brigade, and to the Army in general.

GREAT CHANGE

Lieut.-Gen. Sir Alfred Coddington, who responded, referred to the changes that would take place in the Army in the future. Two battalions of the Brigade of Guards, he said, would be converted to machine gun battalions, and those selected for that duty were the 3rd Battalion Grenadier Guards and the 3rd Battalion Coldstream Guards. It would mean a great change in their military training, but he was sure they would all be proud to take their part in that development of the Army.

He assured members that the regiment continued to flourish. Its prestige and reputation was bound to be high because they were getting a very good class of men as recruits.

"Headquarters and branches of the Old Coldstreamers' Association" was proposed by Mr. C. H. Babington (vice-president of the Westcountry branch), who mentioned that the branch had a membership of 97, which was extremely satisfactory. He was happy to report that only two members were out of employment and needed assistance.

Replying, Col. Arthur Smith, officer commanding the Coldstream Guards, welcomed the good work being carried on by the eighteen branches of the association.

WHAT WOMEN TALK ABOUT
And What They Don't
London, March 28.
Miss Margery Wilson, of New York, has been applying her mind to the fascinating question: What is it that women talk about?
Miss Wilson runs a "charm" school for women. And she has been examining her pupils.
She has made a "conversation test" of 19,000 women in all parts of the United States. And this is her conclusion:
The average girl between the ages of 17 and 20 can talk at length on four subjects only—Men, Make-up, The Movies and School days.
From 20 to 30 a woman extends her conversational scope. Popular topics of her talk are:
Aviation, Diet, The Next War, Politics, Communism, Modern Art, Air Conditioning.
Miss Wilson says, too, that women don't talk nearly as much as they used to about babies, about sex, about drink, about bridge, and about housekeeping.
You can believe that or not, as you like.

2,000,000 LEPERS OF THE EMPIRE

The King's Support For Medical Campaign

London.
A letter from the King commending the efforts being made to stamp out the scourge of leprosy from those parts of the British Empire where it still exists was read at a meeting of the general committee of the British Empire Leprosy Relief Association at the India Office. The text of the letter, written in December when King Edward was Prince of Wales was as follows:—
"We are fortunate in this country in that the horrors of leprosy have never gained a hold over our own people, but in many parts of the Empire this immemorial scourge still claims a terrible number of victims. The British Empire Leprosy Relief Association, of which I am patron, is performing a very vital task in combating leprosy in India, Africa, the Levant, and the West Indies. I hope the public will recognize the importance of their work, and will respond generously to their appeal."

Sir Edward Galt, chairman of the executive committee, said investigation had shown that leprosy was far more widespread than was formerly thought, and their 1924 estimate of 300,000 lepers in the British Empire had been increased to a minimum of 2,000,000 to-day. The greatest progress had been made in India, where hundreds of clinics had been opened, many hundreds of doctors trained, and hundreds of thousands of lepers treated. By active propaganda the people of India had been roused to help in stamping out leprosy from their midst. In other affected parts of the Empire the parent association had accomplished a good deal of useful work in arousing the interest of Governments and missionaries. Most medical missionaries were now treating lepers.
Dr. E. Muir, the medical secretary, formerly head of the leprosy department of the Calcutta School of Tropical Medicine, said he hoped to leave in a week's time on a visit to Nigeria, the Gold Coast, and Sierra Leone to study leprosy in those countries in the light of his Indian experiences.

WATER SUPPLIES IN SOUTH AFRICA

Proposal For Conservation

London, March 20.
Colonel A. E. Capell, C.B.E., D.S.O., in a letter to "The Times Weekly Edition" from Southern Rhodesia, refers to the article, "Tragedy on the Veld," which was published on January 2. In it our Transvaal Correspondent, when describing the drought, wrote:—"At present after rains the dry river-beds become raging torrents and the water rushes off to the sea without irrigating an acre of land on the way." Colonel Capell says the same is true of Southern Rhodesia.
"At present," he writes, "a great network of drains, criss-crossing the country, intersecting runnels, and springs and cut alongside thousands of miles of roads carries away the water that falls. If these millions of gallons could be conserved and kept on the land what a different tale there would be to tell." He suggests that it should be made incumbent upon road engineers and drain makers to make arrangements for the conservation of the water they propose to drain by running it into natural low-lying ground or in other ways.

CAPTAIN BLOOD

Quick thinking on the part of Errol Flynn saved Olivia de Havilland from possible drowning while the two were working on scenes at Laguna Beach, California, for the Cosmopolitan picture, "Captain Blood," next change at the Queen's Theatre.

Miss de Havilland was sitting on a large rock about 10 feet from shore when a tremendous wave lashed over the rock and hurled the actress into the water. Flynn plunged through the wave and grabbed Miss de Havilland as she was being washed toward another large rock. He managed to get her ashore safely.

Lifeguards in the vicinity who rushed to the scene could offer no explanation for the unexpected wave, which Flynn estimated as ten feet high.

"Captain Blood" is Rafael Sabatini's most powerful drama, a tale of Seventeenth Century piracy, produced on a tremendous scale. Besides Flynn and Miss de Havilland the cast includes Lionel Atwill, Basil Rathbone, Ross Alexander, Guy Kibbee, Robert Barrat and hundreds of others.

At The Oriental

Self-reporting newspaper men and women agree that the fault of most films with a newspaper background can be traced directly to the doors of those producers who haven't the faintest of what a press room looks like.

Profiting by the experience of other studios, Warner Brothers before a single camera turned on "Front Page Woman" showing at the Oriental Theatre on Wednesday and Thursday decided to get right down to bed rock, with the active press called in to have its say.

Among a number of self-appointed technical experts on the picture was George Brent, the costar, who comes of a family with definitely journalistic leanings.

The picture itself is the story of a newspaper sub-editor, played by Miss Davis, and a rival on another paper, George Brent, with whom she fights constantly although she loves him.

The supporting cast includes Roscoe Karns, Winifred Shaw, J. Farrell MacDonald and Gordon Westcott.

TWO FOR TO-NIGHT

A Bing Crosby comedy with music, "Two for To-night," opens to-day at the Queen's Theatre with Joan Bennett, Mary Boland and Lynne Overman also in the leading roles.

In "Two for To-night" Crosby is cast as a crooner mistaken for a playright. Bing, as one of Miss Boland's three, musically inclined sons, accidentally meets Joan Bennett, secretary to Lynne Overman, stage impresario. She arranges a meeting between her boss and Bing. As he tries to explain why he is there, Overman thinks he is giving him an idea for a play and tells him to write it as a starring vehicle for his star and sweetheart.

He takes a trip to Europe and leaves Bing and Miss Bennett to finish the story.

Running out of ideas, Crosby takes the star to a night club to seek more material. After starting a free-for-all seltzer water battle in the restaurant, he lands in jail where he continues dictating the second act, and croons love songs to Miss Bennett in the meantime.

Overman, suddenly returning from abroad, finds Bing and the star rehearsing a love scene and fires him. Crosby involves himself in many ludicrous, laughable situations in the film, before he is reunited with the right girl.

"ROSE MARIE"

If you never see another picture this year, don't miss "Rose Marie," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's scintillating new production co-starring Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy and now playing at the King's and Alhambra Theatres.

It is one of the best to come out of Hollywood in many a moon. Directed by W. S. Van Dyke and produced by Hunt Stromberg, it has been brilliantly mounted and its tender love story bravely told.

land the cast includes Lionel Atwill, Basil Rathbone, Ross Alexander, Guy Kibbee, Robert Barrat and hundreds of others.

BENGUET CONSOLIDATED SHARES

Theft Confirmed

Manila, April 11.
A. F. Duggleby, vice-president of the Benguet Consolidated Mining Company, yesterday confirmed reports which have been circulated in the business community for the past several months regarding the theft of some 8,000 shares of Benguet Consolidated valued at P62,000. The shares belong to the Dominican friars.

Those thought to be involved are William Solari, former stock ledger clerk of the Benguet Consolidated Mining Company; Edwin C. von Pelikan, formerly employed in a large brokerage firm; and Hendrick von Buchwald, a former employee of an American oil company.

All three men have left the Islands. Solari, who is an Italian, left Manila in November, last year, on the pretext of joining Mussolini's African expedition. The loss of the shares had not been discovered then, and Solari, who was a trusted employee, was given his salary for the remainder of the year plus a Christmas bonus.

Mr. Duggleby, who is the directing head of the Benguet Consolidated interests during the absence of Judge John W. Haussermann, president and general manager, and of F. O. Haussermann, vice-president and assistant general manager, declared that his company will spare no effort to bring the culprits back to Manila to stand trial.

The papers were placed in the hands of the city fiscal some weeks ago by the firm of De Witt, Perkins and Ponce Enrile, attorneys for Benguet Consolidated. The case has since then been under investigation by Francisco Albert, fourth assistant fiscal.

REPERCUSSIONS

One of the repercussions of the case is the resignation of G. E. von Pelikan, brother of one of the men alleged to have taken the missing shares, from the firm of DeWitt, Perkins and Ponce Enrile, of which he was an assistant attorney. Mr. Pelikan apparently resigned to save not only himself but his office from any possible embarrassment on account of his brother's actions. He sailed last Wednesday on the s.s. Tasman for South Africa.

When questioned yesterday, Mr. Duggleby expressed the opinion that the master mind probably was not Solari, and that Solari probably acted only as a tool. Solari was connected with Benguet Consolidated for about two years. He came from a good family and had good references from a bank in which he was formerly employed.

The stolen shares were part of the stock held by members of the Dominican order. Since these shares have been inactive for a considerable length of time, the loss was not discovered until after the payment of the last quarterly dividends in 1935. One of the friars went to the Benguet office claiming that his dividends were short. He was told that perhaps he had sold some of the shares, so he left to check his records and found that he was right. It was then discovered that the certificates had been falsified.

Solari knew that the loss would be discovered after the dividends had been paid, so he made sure that he was already out of the country when that happened.

As soon as the loss was discovered, Benguet Consolidated bought from the market the equivalent number of shares to make up for the shortage.

"LAST OF THE PAGANS"

Typhoons and temperamental sun showers and "undersea black widows" were a few of the multitude of complications that went into filming an idyllic romance of the South Seas, in the five months' location trip of director Richard Thorpe and his Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production unit, filming "Last of the Pagans," drama of Polynesian native life, which comes on Wednesday to the King's Theatre.

Typhoons wrecked sets built on a coral atoll for the picture. One of them, however, was actually filmed in the process, providing one of the biggest thrills in the production. Palm trees were hurled through the walls of buildings by the force of the wind.

EL DORADO MINES' OFFICIALS

Charged With Law Violation

Manila, April 17.
The investigation of alleged violations of the blue sky law, hitherto confined to petroleum concerns, switched to the gold mining industry this week with the filing of charges against officials of the El Dorado Mines, gold mining venture with headquarters in Manila.

Those accused in the complaint filed in Manila by Gervasio Diaz, city fiscal are A. W. Ralston, president of Demonstration, Benguet Exploration, and of the Manila Machinery and Supply Company; William Seib, formerly owner of the Mountain Hotel in Baguio; P. J. O'Neill, mining man of Baguio; A. K. Doe; William Douglas, vice-president and treasurer of the Peoples Bank and Trust Company and Leonard C. Moore, president of the Sugar News Company, and interested in several mining ventures.

A bond of P.2,000 was required for the provisional liberty of each of the accused.

In the complaint it is alleged that from July 1, 1933, to June 30, 1934, the accused, as organizers and promoters of El Dorado, an unincorporated association organized for the purpose of developing mining claims and engaging in mining, and the others accused as trustees of the company, sold or caused to be sold stocks worth P.134,000, knowing that such stocks were speculative securities.

SECURITIES SPECULATIVE

These securities were speculative, it is stated, because El Dorado issued a part of its securities in payment for certain mining claims and because the value of these shares depend materially upon proposed or promised future promotion and development rather than on present tangible assets and conditions.

Mr. Moore, a trustee of the association, told the Bulletin that he had no part in the promotion of the company, and no interest whatsoever in the claims. He states that he consented to act as one of the trustees since he was the largest holder of stock, purchased for cash, and that he assumed that the organization was in proper legal form since the work was supervised by a prominent corporation lawyer.

Mr. Ralston said that the firm started with a cash capital of P.75,000, and that the company still has about P.45,000 in the treasury. In two years of exploration, the company has spent some P.25,000.

Fiscal Diaz also announced this week that an investigation would be made of five oil firms: Leyte-Tayabas Oil Corporation, North Cebu Oil Corporation, South Cebu Oil Corporation, Tolegría Oil Corporation, and the Far East Oil Corporation.

FACTS

In a letter to the Bulletin Mr. Moore stated that the following facts "may tend to offset" some of the "undeserved, unpleasant publicity":

"El Dorado Mines was organized June 28, 1933 as a Trust Estate in which the title to all assets of the estate was vested in three trustees who, in turn, issued to subscribers or to their successors in interest, certificates representing shares of beneficial interest in the Trust Estate.

"The authorized capital was P.150,000 of which 50 per cent was for the purchase of the claims.

"Of the paid in capital of P.75,000 there now remains in bank P.45,950. Therefore, the total expenditure for organization, expenses, legal fees, surveying, development and exploration work during almost three years was only P.29,050.

"The expenditure also covers the purchase of three additional claims.

"No fees were paid for share subscriptions, and no moneys have been paid out for expenses or salaries of officials.

"The organization papers were prepared by a corporation lawyer of high standing under whose direction the trustees transacted the business.

"The trusteeship has been performed at all times in a most conservative manner with the best interests of the shareholders ever in mind.

"Exploration work continues, and there is still a probability that the property may prove of value."

ANNIE OAKLEY

That Ancient Bromide, "History repeats itself," is not difficult to swallow when "Annie Oakley" is released.

For "Annie Oakley" is a realistically visualized chapter of glamorous American events. The career of the famous marksman has been dramatized by conscientious screen adaptors, sensitive director and a group of qualified actors led by the intelligent Barbara Stanwyck. The spurious days of "Annie Oakley" have passed, but the screen brings them all back with vivid, lightning intensity.

As the title reveals, Annie Oakley is the central character in a colourful atmosphere, that of Buffalo Bill's Wild West Show.

Hollywood's designers of film fantasy have taken incidents in the life and career of Annie Oakley and fashioned a motion picture which offers a blood-tingling insight into this period. Annie Oakley was an Ohio backwoods girl engaged in an odd way of making her livelihood. She used to shoot quail with a single bullet through the head and sell them to a Cincinnati hotel. In the film, the proprietor, impressed with her ability, has her accept a sharp-shooting challenge by one, Toby Walker. Her performance is so astounding that "Buffalo Bill" signs her up for his show as a counter attraction to Walker.

Touring with the show, Annie gives command performances before crowned heads. The picture duplicates her real-life feat of shooting a cigarette from the mouth of Prince Wilhelm, later the war Kaiser of Germany. It has been intimated that Annie might have changed the history of the world, possibly redrawn the present map of Europe, if her stunt had resulted in a fatality.

Through Annie's life ran the course of romance, something which could not be altered by the lavish praise showered on her by pauper, prince and potentate. As in the picture, she married the man she defeated at the Cincinnati Gun Club in her initial exhibition.

History in figurative form, but none the less, colourful and dramatic, repeats itself in "Annie Oakley." The high appeal of the American West as idealized in the Buffalo Bill shows, is retained with impressive fidelity. The remarkably hued life of its heroine is depicted in all its brilliance. Barbara Stanwyck stars as the glamorous Annie Oakley. Preston Foster portrays Toby Walker and Melvyn Douglas, as Buffalo Bill's partner, is Toby's rival for Annie. Moroni Olsen breathes life into the characterization of Buffalo Bill, and George Stevens, directs the players under the aegis of RKO Radio.

DASTARDLY CRIME RECALLED

ACID THROWING AFFAIR

Man Commended

Imprisonment for five years was imposed on Chan Fai, 45, hawk-er, by the Acting Chief Justice (Mr. Justice Lindsell) at the Criminal Sessions yesterday for having thrown acid over a woman with intent to do her grievous bodily harm.

The crime was described by Mr. Justice Lindsell as a dastardly and cowardly one.

The jury empanelled for the hearing comprised Messrs. R. Pestonji (foreman), C. A. Olson, Ho Chung-chow, Yip Bank-key, A. C. Gomes, G. J. Grover and Chan Kiu-lu.

According to the Crown Prosecutor (Mr. E. H. Williams) the woman in the case was Yip Lin, who had previously lived with Chan as his mistress. There were frequent quarrels between them and they soon separated.

"Soon after they separated," said Mr. Williams, "the couple met in the street where it was alleged Chan had made a very significant remark stating 'Mind out for yourself next time you go out.'"

"The next time they met was on February 16 when Yip was walking along Pennington Street, Wanchai. She heard someone approach her from behind and then felt liquid being poured over her head. She turned and saw Chan behind her."

An eye-witness of the assault, said Mr. Williams was Shek Pui, who chased Chan, caught him and handed him over to the police.

PERMANENTLY DISFIGURED

With her face heavily scarred, Yip Lin told the court that after the assault she was taken to hospital where she remained for a month. She said she was permanently disfigured.

Evidence was brought showing that Chan had given a fitter's assistant 10 cents to buy a bottle of nitric acid.

A statement alleged to have been made by Chan when arrested stated that Yip had stolen $45 from him and had been insolent and aggressive. He had bought the acid with the idea of frightening her and did not intend hurting her but when he was holding the jar of acid above her head, she struck him on the arm with her umbrella. Some of the acid spilled on his hand, causing him to drop the jar over her head.

In passing sentence Mr. Justice Lindsell said the jury had very rightly found Chan guilty of a most serious crime for it was obvious that he had deliberately thrown the acid over her head. She was extremely lucky not to have lost her eyesight.

Mr. Justice Lindsell commended Shek Pui for his public spirit in chasing and capturing Chan. "The more help the public give to the police, which is responsible for the maintenance of law and order in this Colony, the better it will be for the Colony," he said. You have given a very striking instance of public spirit.

A WOMAN'S LAPSE

Stole Seven Sets Of Mah Jong

At the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday a 45-year-old woman, Au Yeung described as a widow, was charged with the theft of seven mah jong sets from seven different addresses in various parts of the mainland and Hong Kong.

In the absence of Inspector A. H. Elston, who was attending the Criminal Sessions, Sergeant Headridge said that the accused obtained the mah jong sets, and had them delivered to various addresses where she purported that she had hired cubicles. A little girl was used as a decoy.

The sets thus obtained were either sold or pawned. All the sets are being retrieved by private treaty.

A statement from the S.C.A. was then handed to the Magistrate, who said to the accused "You have a husband."

Accused who at a previous hearing had intimated that she was a widow did not deny this statement but said that she lived separately from him following an agreement reached at the S.C.A.

Sentence of six months' imprisonment was imposed on the various charges while the child was ordered to be sent to the S.C.A. for them to make a decision regarding her.

Evading Payment

Two youths, Pun Yin Chiu (22) and Pun Yu Sang (18) described as brothers appeared before Mr. Q. A. A. Macfadyen on various counts relating to an attempt to avoid payment of fare on the Yaumatei Ferry. Chiu was charged with lending his monthly ticket to his brother, while the latter was charged with attempting to evade payment.

Mr. Peter H. Sin appeared for both the accused, while Inspector R. Shannon prosecuted.

The first accused was discharged. Inspector Shannon said that the second accused was arrested following an attempt to evade payment by saying that he had a ticket. He was aware of the fact that his brother possesses a ticket and therefore made out that he also possessed one.

Mr. Peter Sin said that his client had been with friends in Hong Kong, and did not return to the mainland until 8.30 p.m. His one thought was to get home, and when he boarded the ferry he found that he did not have any money. So on the spur of the moment he claimed that he possessed one. Mr. Sin said that he thought a caution against a similar practice in the future would meet the case.

In fining the accused $15, the Magistrate said that he could not agree with this view, as this sort of thing was becoming too prevalent.

Haynes said that the money and watch were stolen from a bunk belonging to Sergeant Major A. Khan, of the 8th Junjah Regiment, while the latter was on the parade ground.

Another Indian in the military police saw the accused later and questioned him regarding the theft. Accused said that he had sold the watch to a floor sweeper for 83 cents. The $2.00 odd that he had stolen he had subsequently lost in gambling.

The floor sweeper in question, said the prosecution had returned the watch to the Sgt. Major, as soon as he had heard that it had been stolen.

Pte. Wright in answer to the Bench, said that he chased the thief for about 200 yards before arresting him.

In commending the soldier for his prompt action, the Magistrate said, with a little more co-operation such as had been given, there would be less crime in the Colony.

LADY SOUTHERN FETED

Girl Guides Say Farewell

Farewell was said yesterday by the Hong Kong Girl Guides Association to their popular and loved Chief Commissioner Lady Southern. A tea party was held at their Headquarters, Sandilands Hut. Other than the officials and guides who so regret the departure of Lady Southern, many other friends were present among whom were: Mrs. A. W. Bartholomew, Lady Ho Tung, Mrs. S. W. Ts'o, Mrs. R. H. Kowall, Mrs. M. K. Lo, Mrs. H. Kom Tong, Mrs. Eu Tong Sen, Mrs. Owen Hughes, Mrs. G. A. C. Herklot, District Commissioner of Hong Kong, Mrs. J. R. Higgs, District Commissioner of Kowloon and others.

Tea was first taken after which the Guides formed a horse-shoe outside the Hut and raising their hands in salute enrolled a new Guide, Miss Chan. Following the enrolment, Mrs. Skinner and Mrs. Middleton-Smith were presented with warrants. Miss Flueriedo was presented with the First Class Badge and the "All Round" Cord. This Cord is an award for all-round merit and Lady Southern in presenting it said that it was the first time that she had ever presented it to anyone.

SING-SONG

Gathering around the Campfire the Guides then indulged in a sing-song, singing some very pretty "rounds" which harmonised in a most pleasing manner. It was part of their farewell to Lady Southern.

As a token of the love and esteem with which Lady Southern was held by her Guides, a present was given to her in the form of a Photograph Album, inside of which were photos of all the Guide Companies in Hong Kong. It was a beautiful gesture and one which though hardly necessary would aid to remind Lady Southern of her Guide friends when she is in Gambia. Each photograph was signed by all the Guides and Brownies in Hong Kong.

Mrs. G. A. C. Herklot in making the presentation said that, they were sorry to have to say Good-bye to Lady Southern and expressed the thanks of all connected with the Association for all the good works done for the Association which Lady Southern had done. They would never have such a good Commissioner again and the speaker then expressed the hope that Lady Southern would have a very good time in Gambia.

SORRY TO LEAVE

Lady Southern said: "It is very difficult to be articulate when one feels things very keenly. I cannot pretend that I am sorry to go to the Gambia for it is promotion for my husband and a new adventure into a totally different life and country. But I am truly sorry to leave the Guide friends who have played so large a part in my life here. It is impossible for me to thank you all adequately for your loyal co-operation. You thank me for doing so little. In fact I feel I am a complete fraud. I am a Guide Commissioner with the minimum of technical knowledge, a President of the Art Society who has given up painting, a President of the Musical Society who no longer plays the piano, a President of the Hong Kong Singers who no longer sings and a President of the Hockey Club who has never played Hockey in her life. There is a frightful confession for you. However, I yield to none in my enthusiasm for the Guide and Scout Movements and my conviction that in this stormy modern world they are a sheet anchor for the youth of all nations.

"I hope with all my heart that Guiding will prosper more and more year by year in Hong Kong. I am leaving the Movement in such good hands, far better than my own. I want to express my heartfelt thanks to all those who have helped me so generously during the past ten years. They have made Guiding a very joyful thing, and they have brought into it that true feeling of friendship and sisterhood on which all true Guiding must be built up.

FRIENDLY SPIRIT

"I see in a recent number of the Guide that the Chief Guide gives a word of warning to Guides and Guides to remember that friendliness is the foundation of Guiding. She says she has heard that in some instances there has been a stand offishness and a want of contact which is entirely foreign to Guide principles. I hope none of us would come under this crit-

DRIVING WITHOUT PERMISSION

Gunner Fined

A fine of $20 was imposed on Robert Disher, a Gunner of the Royal Artillery when he appeared before Mr. W. Schofield yesterday at the Central Magistracy charged with having driven private car No. 913 without the permission of the owner, Mr. W. Manchislogan. The incident occurred in Wanchai on Saturday.

Traffic Sub-Inspector Saunders said that about 1.15 a.m. on Saturday the defendant was seen driving the car in Jaffe Road near Stewart Road. He was driving in reverse and seemed to be in difficulty with the gears. Sergeant Freyer went up to him and asked him to whom the car belonged. Defendant first replied that it was that of a Quartermaster Sergeant but later changed his story to say that it belonged to a tall dark-haired man, and that this man had loaned the car to him asking him to take it to the Garrison Lecture Hall. He had gone there but had found the hall closed. The car was undamaged and the driver had a license.

The defendant admitted the charge but denied that he had said "that the car belonged to a Quartermaster Sergeant. His Worship fined him $20.

ANOTHER MONSTER SIGHTED

Europeans' Adventure

With the news of the "tigers" still roaming the Mainland fresh in our minds, the story that a strange-looking sea monster was sighted on the southern side of the Island opposite the Dairy Farm at Pokfulam was narrated by two Europeans who were out sailing in a small boat.

They were in their boat under sail on Sunday afternoon at about half a mile from the shore when they heard a peculiar blowing noise and looking out to sea, they caught sight of the monster, which was about fifty yards away from them. As the beast came to the surface from time to time, two or three big humps could be seen.

Anxious to get a closer view of the monster, the occupants of the boat hauled down sail and made for the spot where the humps appeared, by utilising the boat's engine. But they were unable to get too close quarters as the beast made off too quickly for them. However, the peculiar blowing noise continued and the two gentlemen kept the monster under observation for some considerable time, but they did not at any time see any spouting of water.

They stated that the monster was not of the whale or porpoise type and were quite definite on that point. It had the appearance rather of a big sea serpent, of at least ten to twelve feet in length.

It suggests an adaptation of Isaac Watts' verse:—

"When'er I take my walks abroad

So many Guides I see

And as I never speak to them

They never speak to me."

I am glad to say that the happy friendly spirit which marked our Rally gave me a very different impression.

"I want to express in particular my warm thanks to all the heads of Schools who assist us by all means in their power. And to the Vice-President and other friends I add a special "thank you" for their generous support. Our "fairy godfather" Mr. Tang Shiu Kin still continues to wave his wand for us and produces wonderful gifts. His latest surprise for us is to take the form of something to commemorate my association with Guiding work. I don't feel I deserve it in the least, but it is a delightful thought of his. We have not quite decided on what form the remembrance shall take but I do thank him most warmly for all he has done in so many ways for Guiding in Hong Kong. He is a true friend to the Movement and to us.

"Now I can only say I hope we shall all next meet some day somewhere. Once a Guide always a Guide and we must endeavour to keep unbroken the links of friendship we have forged in this lovely Island during the past ten years."

Lady Southern then spent a few minutes admiring the lovely album that had been given her and said that it would hardly be necessary to have to look at the album to remember her friends in Hong Kong. The party then broke up.

C. B. A. SHOWS GOOD RESULTS

Annual Meeting Held

A highly satisfactory year's work was reported at the Annual General Meeting of the Central British Association which was held yesterday in the main hall of the Central British School, presided over by the Rev. G. E. S. Upsdell, Chairman of the Association. A profit of well over $700 was disclosed.

The Chairman took the opportunity during the meeting to appeal for further support in membership, which he said would go a long way to ensuring another year's good work, such as had been reviewed.

The Chairman said that he should like to congratulate the club on their splendid showing, during the past year especially with regard to hockey. The men's team had won ten of the eleven games played, while the Senior ladies eleven had won the Caer Clark Cup Competition. With a further increase of members he felt sure that the club "would still go ahead."

Thanks were also expressed by the Rev. Upsdell to the C.B.A. for so kindly donating a cup to the Central British School for the best all rounder in the annual sports, which had been awarded to R. Holden, (Form 6).

A hearty vote of thanks was then proposed by the Chairman for the outgoing committee, especially the Hon. Secretary and Hon. Treasurer for their enthusiastic work.

The meeting was declared closed following a vote of thanks proposed by Mr. W. H. G. Hirst, for the Chairman for his capable handling of the meeting.

SUSPECTED MURDER

Man Found Strangled

A startling discovery was made by a Sanitary Department cook yesterday morning in his round of work, when near the Coffee Plantation in Sookunpo he came upon the dead body of a Chinese male lying on the footpath running through the Plantation.

First glimpse of the inert body revealed that the man was dead but the body was still in its usual state with all the clothing about him being disarranged. The Police were immediately informed, the discovery and upon examination it was found that the deceased had two pieces of clothing tied round the neck one of which appeared to be a lamp wick and the other a string. There were also two small wounds in the abdomen and in the lower part of the back. The authorities feared that the man met his death by foul means and the cause of death was apparently due to strangulation.

SNATCHER CONVICTED AT SESSIONS

Admitted Throwing "Dust"

There was an abrupt ending to the hearing of a charge of robbery and violence against Chan Tung (44), unemployed, at the Criminal Sessions yesterday. Chan pleaded not guilty but only three witnesses had been heard when he admitted having thrown dust in the eyes of his victim, and Mr. Justice Lindell directed the jury to return a verdict of guilty. Chan was sentenced to imprisonment for two years.

The jury empanelled comprised Messrs. G. A. Smith (foreman), F. L. Rapley, L. D. Walch, H. H. Scott, Lam Chong-choong, Fung Shu-hong and C. L. Rocha.

Chan was charged with the larceny of a package of tomatoes from Winifred Beatrice Penney at Gap Road, Happy Valley, on March 12 and with having used personal violence.

Mrs. Penney stated that at 7.00 p.m. on March 12 she was standing near the Monument talking to Mrs. Payne when a Chinese approached her from behind, threw white powder into her face and attempted to snatch her bag. She resisted and her assailant grabbed a package of tomatoes she was carrying and ran away.

He was chased and caught by a man named Hopkins who jumped off a bus.

ANALYST'S REPORT

Mr. V. E. Branson, Government analyst, said he had examined white powder found on Mrs. Penney and Hopkins and found it to be of state of lime. Dr. K. Urtley, who examined Mrs. Penney and Hopkins, said their eyes were smarting.

When Chan was asked if he wished to question Mrs. Penney he admitted he had thrown dust in her eyes to assist him in snatching the bag. Mr. Justice Lindell then stopped the case.

In passing sentence Mr. Justice Lindell said he would take into consideration the fact that the Crown Prosecutor (Mr. E. H. Williams) had stated that Chan was almost starving and in a very weak condition when arrested.

"Were it not for that I should certainly order a whipping in addition to imprisonment," he said.

"SILENT GUIDE"

Demonstration Given On Ferry Wharf

Public curiosity which has been aroused during the past few weeks by the hordes of electricians working on the large map of Hong Kong at the Star Ferry wharf, was satisfied last evening by a demonstration of Hong Kong's one and only "Silent Guide."

The "Silent Guide" is certainly a novel form of advertisement. On one side of the wharf is a list of several shops and business firms in the city, with buttons alongside, and on the other is a large scale map of Hong Kong embracing a large piece of the business area. Pressing the button alongside the name of a particular firm lights a small globe on the map corresponding to the position of the firm's premises.

Many local people last evening took advantage of the promoter's invitation to work the sign which is bound to become popular with recent arrivals and tourists.

NORWEGIAN SHIP STRANDED

Keswick To The Rescue

Departing hurriedly on an unknown mission on Sunday, the Hong Kong tug, Henry Keswick, is now discovered, set to sea in response to a call from the Norwegian steamship Hiram.

The steamship was grounded on the well-known Swallow Bar while carrying cargo and passengers on Sunday morning. It struck the sandbank at 9 o'clock and after several attempts to get off had failed, a signal for aid was flashed to Hong Kong.

The Keswick, upon receipt of the signal left immediately and arrived at Swallow Bar late in the afternoon. The passengers were taken off and were landed safely, after which the tug stood by the stranded vessel.

It is stated that the ship is in no danger. The tug has attempted to refloat the vessel yesterday morning but up to now no news has been received as to the success of its efforts.

GAOL TERM FOR FORGERS

Two Charges At Sessions

Remarking that he would have to impose a heavy sentence in view of the frequency of counterfeiting offences, Mr. Justice Hayden yesterday sentenced Chiu Sang to imprisonment for four years. Chiu was charged with the possession of three moulds for 10-cent pieces and 100 counterfeit 10-cent pieces. The sentence ordered was four years on the first charge and a year on the second to run concurrently.

The jury was:—Messrs L. E. N. Ryan (foreman), E. R. Walch, D. Xavier, Jackson Hauling Lao, Yip Tol-gin, Sit On-ko and W. A. Weight.

Mr. M. J. Abbott, for the prosecution, said the police raided Chiu's cubicle at Fuk Wing Street, Shamshui-po on March 3 and found the moulds and coins in a basket beneath a table.

Mr. V. C. Branson, Government Analyst, said the coins were composed of 52.2 per cent. antimony, 2.4 per cent. tin and 42.4 per cent. lead.

COINS IN COAT

Imprisonment for a year was ordered against Yu Kam who pleaded not guilty to the possession of 250 counterfeit 10-cent coins.

Mr. Abbott said Yu was arrested by a Chinese constable in Battery Street, Yaumatei. He had an overcoat over his arm with the money in the pocket and told the police the coat had been given to him by a friend in an opium dvan in Hong Kong to give a man outside the Po Hing Theatre.

Sgt. Whitcroft said the forgeries were good and had a ring similar to 250 counterfeit 10-cent coins.

A verdict of guilty was returned without the jury leaving the box. The jury empanelled were Messrs. M. H. Large (foreman), Leung Yun-hung, A. K. Minu, W. C. Ogley, Wong Yu-cheong, G. A. Lou and D. M. Champbell.

WEDDING STOPPED BY PHONE CALL

"Unheroic" Man In Breach Suit

London.
The wedding guests had arrived
—the best man was ready—
the bride had her wedding gown on—and then came a phone call that the wedding must be put off.

This was a statement made to Mr. Justice Finlay at Lewes Assizes, when Miss Doris Maud Burton, of Neville-road, Hove, was awarded £220 damages with costs against Mr. Hubert Rickard Fowler, of Grosvenor road, Gunnersbury, Chislewick, a bank clerk, for breach of promise of marriage.

Mr. John Flowers, K.C., for Miss Burton said that three days before the wedding, which had been fixed for September 21 last year, Mr.
Fowler telephoned from London that the ceremony could not take place as his mother was too ill.
Miss Burton said it was impossible to put it off.

Two hours before the wedding
he telephoned from London that his mother was very bad and that he could not leave her.

Mr. Flowers added that Mr. Fowler "was not only a cad, but such a coward that he would not go into the witness-box to say it was his mother's fault that he could not marry this girl."

Summing up, Mr. Justice Finlay said, "You may think a more unheroic defendant has never appeared in any court."

HOW TO BE HEALTHY

An authority on physical culture delivered himself of what we believe to be one of the most popular health maxims ever enunciated.
He said—"Don't take a cold bath in the morning." For those who aspire to make fit and lovely creatures of themselves we doubt if any other eight words could bring so much comfort. The advice, it is true, is negative—no apparatus, no pills, no special diet—but that may well be discounted by the positive pleasure with which it will be received. Not that very many people take a cold bath in the morning except in quest of a rather doubtful pride which makes them talk about it later in the train. Indeed, we do not for a moment believe that the public statement of the maxim at a Glasgow luncheon will make a bit of difference to the statistics (never compiled) of cold-water bath-taking at any time of day. The true virtue of the new knowledge is that it will have a profound effect not on bodily habit but rather on mental peace. For as spring comes round year after year, with its buds and singing birds, men of all ages begin to feel that the season calls for the acceptance of a severity of living for the sake of their bodies of which the cold bath is undoubtedly the Spartan badge. They don't want to take one, they hate the thought of it, but the idea prods like a goad on their minds, and much of the dejection familiar at this season—normally put down to love, or golf, or what not—is actually a suppressed sense of guilt at the thought of cold tubs rejected and manliness refused.
Now that an authority on bodily fitness has come out boldly with the assurance that, in the morning at all events, a cold bath is a thing to keep out of, a blow has been struck at the seat of an ancient disquiet. Cold baths and not grog may henceforth be discounted together in the familiar phrase—abstainers have the best of it.

voy. He will be accompanied by

BIRTHDAY OF HITLERNation Joins In Celebrations

(Hong Kong Daily Press Special)

Berlin, April 20.
All Germany is to-day celebrating Chancellor Hitler's 47th birthday. Already at ten o'clock on Sunday evening a large crowd had assembled in Berlin in front of the Chancellor's residence in the Wilhelm Strasse to congratulate the Fuehrer at midnight. Shortly after midnight, when the crowd in front of the Chancellor's residence, already numbered many thousands, Hitler appeared on the balcony and was jubilantly acclaimed by the gathering.
The birthday celebrations began on Sunday with a broadcast address by Reichminister Dr. Goebbels, relayed over all German transmission stations, which assured the Chancellor of the German people's love and trust of their chosen leader.

GERMAN YOUTH MESSAGE

Among the first congratulations received by Chancellor Hitler on his birthday on Monday from outside Berlin, was a message from the German Youth Leaders in various parts of the Reich which was conveyed to the Chancellor through a nation-wide radio hook-up shortly after midnight. The message from the Youth leader representing Western Germany opening with the words: "Here speaks the liberated West" and went on to recall "the unforgettable experience of March 7 when the German soldiers re-entered the western frontier region."

HONOURS LIST

The honours list published on the occasion of the Chancellor's birthday includes the following distinctions bestowed on internationally known personages: Professor for Pianist-Wilhelm Back-

CELEBRATION AT GERMAN CLUB

Yesterday, the day of Adolf Hitler's birthday, the local group of the National Socialist Party had invited the German community to attend an anniversary celebration.

In accordance with the wishes of Hitler, the celebration was kept to modest limits. Mr. M. Hess, leader of the Party Group welcomed the guests, who then joined for a simple meal. During the meal, Mr. Hess in an address said:
"To-day it is with pleasure that I had to let you wait for a while,
because so many more came to attend our celebration, that it took this time to get seats for them."

All Germans to-day think of one man: Adolf Hitler, their self-chosen Fuehrer. One thought and feeling unites them all: their love to the Fuehrer. If Germany today is once more honoured and respected it is thanks to the untiring work of Hitler, to his belief in the qualities and resources in the German people,
which, if roused, must lead them
to a great and wonderful future.

If we think back, what do we see before 1933: chaos, no security for the citizen, no respect for the law.

Now the universal belief, that,
led by Hitler, the way of Germany goes upwards. The absolute security in law and justice.

And yet, not all is achieved.
But we know that the Fuehrer will not rest until the very last of his tasks is fulfilled, until our Fatherland is truly united and strong, respected by all.

The Fuehrer's work was only possible by hard work and the unreserved co-operation of his people. Two qualities of the Fuehrer made him succeed: his absolute belief in the strength of the German people, and his
"Nibelung" sincerity.
With right the Fuehrer can say:
"All that you are, you are through me but all that I am, I am through you."

FIRM PROTEST
TO MOSCOWBorder Incident
Near Suifenhoo

Hsinking, Apr. 20.
A firm protest regarding the border incident, east of Suifenhoo, in which 14 Soviet troops penetrated Manchukuo and attacked a Japanese unit engaged in military exercises, was lodged by the Man-chukuo Foreign Office with the Soviet Government through Consul-General Michael Slavutsky in Harbin.

The protest is understood to have voiced deep regret at the provocative attitude taken recently by Soviet frontier guards against the Japanese-Manchukuo forces, resulting in a series of untoward
incidents along the frontier.

The series of illegal violations of Manchukuo territory by Soviet guards and military planes is calculated to provoke the Japanese and Manchukuo authorities and is in striking contrast to the peaceful policy towards neighbours professed by the Moscow Government, the protest continues.

Attention is called to the incessant manoeuvres of "late in the frontier areas by Soviet artillery and infantry units, which arouse serious misgivings among the Japanese and Manchurians.

The protest concludes with an appeal to the Soviet Government to co-operate in redemarcation of the frontier, as proposed by Man-chukuo, for most of the frontier disputes must be attributed to the ambiguity of the boundary.—

JAPANESE FLEET
DEPARTSAdmiral Entertained
By General Han

Tsingtao, April 20.
After a brief stay here, the combined fleet of the Japanese navy
under the command of Admiral Sankichi Takahashi weighed anchor yesterday afternoon and left the harbour. Japanese messages stated that the fleet is returning to Japan via South China seas.

Admiral Takahashi and his officers were wined and dined by General Han Fu-chu, Chairman of the Shantung Provincial Government, who came from Tsinan to greet the Japanese naval officers.
While the rest of the country
shuddered as to why some 60
Japanese warships visited North China, General Han turned out to be a charming and graceful host to the equally charming Japanese admiral and his staff.

In a recent speech at Osaka,
Admiral Takahashi expressed himself in favour of expansion in China as well as to the South
Seas such as Java, Borneo, Dutch Indies, etc.—

Amid continuous roars of laughter, three one-act plays were performed, the rehearsals for which had, in the past weeks, already been a source of much amusement
among the performers, amateurs
from amongst the German com-

The plays, by a cobbler in 1550,
written in old-German rhyme,
depict the stupidity in man, the way he is easily cheated, and conceal deep wisdom beneath sometimes a bit of coarse humour.

Between the acts, music enter-

few changes on the stage were made.

The evening was a great success,
and everybody stayed on till late.

ITALIAN ADVANCE ON ADDIS ABABA

Defence Preparations At The Capital

("Hong Kong Daily Press" Special)

Addis Ababa, April 20.
Jijiga is reported to have been occupied by Italian troops, although these rumours have as yet not received confirmation. The Italian forces, which are marching towards the river Awash reached Ankober, while the mechanised units, which are operating further north, have reached the river Revi.
During a mass meeting held on Sunday on the race track in Addis Ababa, 5,000 men of all ages declared their intention to defend the capital as volunteers. They were thereupon equipped with arms from Government depots. At present it seems uncertain where the defenders of Addis Ababa will make their stand against the advancing Italians. It is considered possible that the Negus, whose present whereabouts are still unknown, may have succeeded in concentrating a force of several thousand men.

In the meantime the Abyssinian Government prepares for the event of having to evacuate the capital, because it is determined to avoid a bombardment of the capital under all circumstances.

Those foreigners who still remained in the capital will leave during the next few days as long as train communication between Addis Ababa and Jibuti is still maintained.

Members of the Belgian Military mission were among the passengers to leave Addis Ababa on Sunday. Those foreigners who will remain in town will await the further developments in their respective Legation quarters.—Transocean News Service.

GORRAHWADI BATTLE

London, Apr. 19.
A graphic account of the battle of Gorrahwadi, which lasted more than two full days, was given to-day by a correspondent with the Italian forces on the southern front.

He states the Italians lost ten white officers and 600 Libyan and Somali troops.

The forces of Abbe Damatu numbered about 10,000 and were armed to some extent with modern weapons and a large number of machine guns. They entrenched themselves in the narrow gorge of Gorrahwadi and used the caves in the sheer cliffs as machinegun nests.

A battalion of Lybians, flanked by irregulars and Somalis and supported by tanks and field artillery, charged the Gorrahwadi gorge on April 15 in the pouring rain and reached a tributary of the Gorrahwadi River by nightfall.

Reinforced by three Libyan regiments, these troops advanced again in the morning.

MACHINE GUN BLASTS

They were met by the full blast of the Ethiopian machine-guns, posted in front of caverns where their crews had some shelter.

There were scenes of heroic endeavour and frightful carnage, then. Charges were hammered down by the machine-guns, and when finally a few Libyan troops had reached the gun positions, fierce hand-to-hand fighting ensued.

The Ethiopians sent counter-charges into the fight and the confusion was enormous.

Four hours this engagement continued, the Ethiopians giving no quarter and asking none, fighting with a recklessness and courage only matched by the Libyan attackers.

MIDNIGHT MANOEUVRE

At midnight the Ethiopians attempted a daring manoeuvre.

EIGHTY MILES TO CAPITAL

Ethiopians Prepare For Enemy

Addis Ababa, Apr. 20.

With the invaders reported to be only 80 miles from the capital, the Ethiopians are preparing to make a last desperate stand to defend the city. The patriotism of the citizens remains undaunted. Yesterday a great crowd assembled at the race course to hear a proclamation ordering every able-bodied man to collect arms, ammunition and food and be ready to take marching orders under penalty of flogging and a fine.

Five thousand people declared their intention of fighting to the death. The luckiest among them were waving rifles, but many were flourishing swords, spears and staves.

With the intention of treating the capital as an open town and thus avoiding Italian bombing, the Abyssinians, together with further recruits, are hurrying from the western provinces and will join the Emperor and Crown Prince in a final stand in the mountains south of Dessie.

NEGUS TO FIGHT

Though the Emperor's whereabouts are still unknown he is declared to be determined to fight to the end and is still accompanied by the most important section of his army.

From Dessie the Italians are apparently moving in two columns, one making towards Awash on the railway. The other is already near Akober, approaching the mountains in Northern Shoa, to where, under cover of the raincloud covered heights, the Crown Prince is known to have made an orderly retreat from Dessie.

Even should the Italians occupy Addis Ababa it is believed that the Emperor will retreat to the mountains still further west, from where he will harass the long line of Italian communications, occasioned by their rapid advance.—Reuter.

MORE TIN FOR BRITAIN

Bolivia Releasing Stocks

London, Apr. 20.

The belief that tin is now coming to Britain more freely than for some time past is borne out by the weekly stocks figures of United Kingdom warehouses which show 558 tons, an increase of 115 tons compared with last week.

Well-informed circles suggest that Bolivia is holding substantial quantities in order to obtain the benefit from the recently announced currency link with sterling and these stocks are now being releasing in consequence of sharp reduction of Bolivia's quota of arrears envisaged in the next few weeks.

Authoritative quarters opine that several thousand tons of invisible stocks lie in the hands of smelters which the Government could acquire if an emergency were to arise.—Reuter.

NEW MILITARY LAW IN SPAIN

By 212 to 4 and the whole right wing abstaining, the Cortes passed the new military law, which prescribes that all officers, who at the foundation of the Republic voluntarily withdrew from service because they did not want to serve under a Republic, and who have since then been engaged in politics, should receive no further pension or other payments.

CHINA TO SELL SILVER?

American Agreement Likely

London, April 20.

Financiers are inclined to think that the Sino-American discussions are likely to result in America agreeing to buy silver from China. She will thus satisfy the requirements of the Silver Purchase Act more cheaply than elsewhere.

On the other hand Chinese exchange will command greater confidence if supported by gold deposits abroad than silver stocks in China.

The "Times" comments that America has already bought large amounts of silver from the Chinese Government and the Chinese bankers now at Washington are fully qualified to negotiate an agreement on behalf of Nanking.

Indications to-day are that some silver holders are disposed to sell, but the "Financial News" believes they will generally hang on, hoping to recoup losses in the December crash.

The "Times" is surprised at the readiness of speculators to resume bullish activities in view of the disappointment and loss sustained last year.

City circles regard the silver market as in a most dangerous condition.—Reuter.

The first military parade since the reintroduction of general compulsory service in Austria was held here in "Heidenplatz" on Sunday simultaneously with the celebration of the 200th anniversary of the death of the famous Austrian General, Prince Eugene of Savoy, who with the British General, the Duke of Marlborough, won the battle of Blenheim in 1704 in the War of the Spanish Succession.

An ordinance read during the parade announced that one of the dragoon regiments of the present Austrian Army will bear henceforth the name "Prince Eugene". Names of other historic Austrian personalities were bestowed as regimental names on other units of the Austrian army.

FOREIGN TRADE OF JAPAN

New Policy To Be Pursued

Cairo, Apr. 20.

Japan will shortly pursue a new foreign trade policy as it is realised that cut-throat dumping methods have eventually reacted against her own trade, stated Dr. Kasama, Japanese representative at the Japanese-Egyptian trade negotiations in rejecting the Egyptian proposals to abolish conditionally the 40 per cent. surtax on Japanese goods.

Dr. Kasama pointed out that Japan may shortly raise the prices of her goods which will result in dumping being unnecessary, and pay a surtax. This will mean a less volume of trade for Japan which, however, will be balanced by increased home export prices.

Dr. Kasama has notified the Egyptian Government that Japan is ready to cut her Egyptian exports to the extent of equivalent value of Japan's cotton purchases from Egypt, constituting approximately a 23 per cent. reduction of Japan's exports to Egypt last year.—Reuter.

BELLIGERENTS MAKE STATEMENTS

Italy Blames Abyssinia For Peace Failure

Geneva, April 20.

The League Council met this morning in a public session and heard the report of the Chairman of the Committee of Thirteen, Senor de Madariaga, on the failure of conciliation efforts in the Italo-Abyssinian dispute. After hearing statements by the Italian and Abyssinian delegates, the meeting adjourned until this evening.

In his speech the Italian delegate, Baron Aloisi declared that Italy could not cease hostilities until peace preliminaries were concluded and security of her forces assured. He said that never before had any Government shown such goodwill towards the League as that of Italy which never refused to take part in the discussions under the aegis of the League, but the Italian Government felt bound to affirm its own principles and suggestions.

Referring to negotiations at Geneva, he contended that the Italian Government by accepting that the League be represented at the peace negotiations had not acted in contravention of the spirit of the Covenant.

Italy's war in Abyssinia, he added, was not only being waged with the sword but with the latest agricultural implements and a military victory would bring civilisation to Abyssinia.

He reaffirmed that the Italian proposals were not in conflict with International Law or the Covenant of the League and constituted the best method for reaching conciliation.

ABYSSINIA BLAMED

Baron Aloisi placed the blame on Abyssinia for failure of the procedure of conciliation as the Ethiopian Government had refused all proposals and admitted they had come to Geneva with a well defined decision not to negotiate.

Referring to allegations of use by the Italians of poison gas, Baron Aloisi said his Government claimed the right of reprisal for Abyssinian atrocities.

He objected to the Committee of Thirteen, which was appointed for the purpose of conciliation and negotiation, constituting itself a judge.

STATEMENT REFUTED

The Ethiopian delegate, M. Wolde Mariam refuted Baron Aloisi's declaration that Abyssinia was responsible for the failure of negotiations and added that "nobody in the world could have a dum-dum bullet, while one Eritrean soldier was badly mutilated."

He protested against the League's failure to give that assistance which Abyssinia as a victim of unjustified aggression was entitled to expect and con-

Doctor's Striking Tribute to 'OVALTINE'

MANY unsolicited tributes to 'Ovaltine' are received from members of the medical profession. It is safe to say that no other product has ever received such a huge volume of world-wide medical testimony. The following letter is of exceptional interest, inasmuch as it relates the experience of a doctor himself in the role of patient:—

Messrs. 'Ovaltine' (A. Wander, Ltd.)

Sirs,

Some months ago I was in Hospital with a badly dislocated knee. I suffered a good deal of pain, and my stand by, the only agent I could rely on to produce sleep, was 'Ovaltine'.

I shall never cease to be grateful for the help this afforded me, and of course shall always insist upon its use by my patients.

Further, it is my firm conviction that 'Ovaltine' should be taken not only in a period of ill-health, but at all times. It is a genuine, sustaining food.

Yours faithfully,

Signed M.B.O.S., L.R.O.P.

P.S.—This letter is given quite spontaneously. N.B.—In accordance with medical etiquette, the name and address of the doctor are withheld from publication.

There can be no better testimony to the supreme health-giving value of 'Ovaltine' than the fact that it is the food beverage most widely recommended by doctors. It is also regularly used in the leading Hospitals and Nursing Homes. Long experience has proved that for giving health all day and for ensuring sound sleep all night, there is nothing like 'Ovaltine'.

Ask your doctor the present price of 'Ovaltine' in the new large tin, which contains 15 ozs. (large size) and 9 ozs. (medium size). The increase of 25% in weight in these new sized tins makes 'Ovaltine' more economical than ever before. There is nothing "just as good" as the genuine 'Ovaltine' made in England. Reject substitutes.

S. CHINA "A" SECURE CHAMPIONSHIP But Only After A Farcical Game

One of the worst exhibitions of football ever witnessed in a League game during the current season was the first division match between the South China "A" and "B" which was played off on the Caroline Hill ground yesterday.

By winning by 5 goals to 1, the "A" have thus won the Senior Championship having completed their fixtures.

A defeat yesterday would have meant that the Chinese Athletic would have a slight chance of challenging for the honours, but the "needle" match between South China "A" and "B" was just a "give and take affair." Only one regular "A" League player turned up, but in spite of that they won. On the other hand the "B" had their full side out.

The stands were almost empty, and a couple of sailors were seen in the covered stand, both apparently expecting the Chinese "stars" to turn up and so be treated with some fine football. It seems that they had "wasted" their money.

If the "B" had played up to their usual game, they would have beaten their senior team according to the players on paper.

It would have been much better for the "B" to concede to "walk over" to the "A" instead of playing like they did yesterday. When Kam Sik-wai scored the final goal of the match for the "A" it was quite obvious that the opposing custodian could have saved it, but he stood without making even an attempt to stop the ball from entering the net.

A FARCE

Play began with both teams putting the ball about wherever they liked without thinking of direction or team-work. Five minutes from the start Ip Pak Wah opened the scoring for the winners. This score remained same to the interval. The standard of play as it progressed was just as uninteresting, as at the beginning.

At the resumption the players were even seen talking during a tussle although they were of different sides.

Ip Pak Wah scored again for the "A" while Lau Hing-choi, Kam Sik-wai and Wong King-chung registered one each. The solitary point for the losers was administered by Henry Young.

The teams were lined up as follows:—

"A" Team:—Chu Siu-heng; Tang Chung-pak, Lau Tin-sun; Lo Wing-kul, Lau Hing-choi, Lee Pui-leung; Wong King-chung, Ip Pak-wah; Kam Sik-wai, Li Wing-on, Tso King-shing.

"B" Team:—Sam Tsang; Wong Yuh-kai, Tse Kan-ying; Henry Young, Yau Wah-hing, Yip Yan-po; Yeung Shiu-yick, Lai Shiu-wing, Ho Kar-keung, Ip Yung-po, To Wai-hing.

Zabala failed to break Nurmi's record for the distance covered in 1 hour, namely 19,210 kilometers, the Argentine only doing 18,805 kilometers.

TSUI AGAIN CHAMPION

H.D. Rumjahn Beaten In Straight Sets

(BY "ADREM")

I would strongly advise all aspirants to tennis championship honours to cultivate the drop shot. Tsui Wai Pui, who yesterday won the highest singles honour in local tennis, when he defeated H. D. Rumjahn in straight sets, amply demonstrated the efficacy of the stroke. The fact that he has won his way to his present position without the loss of a single set, suggests an unbounded improvement on his form of last year and I maintain that it is not so much an all-round improvement, but the perfection of one shot. Tsui's strokes are, this year, possibly slightly more reliable than last season but not sufficiently so to have shown such amazing results.

The scores in yesterday's match seem to indicate a somewhat one-sided game, but this was by no means the case. "H.D." not only played well, but he played remarkably well. His stroking was well-handled, his backhand shots although not particularly forceful were of perfect length and almost invariably found the corners as a preliminary to a net attack. In addition to this he did not do, as most of Tsui's opponents have done hitherto, put the balls back from overhead. Admittedly, his smashes were not always winners, but they did not give Tsui the opportunity of getting his lobbing in working order with the result that the perfect lob following on his drop shots, which ordinarily have his opponent scurrying all over the court, were not in evidence yesterday. From the stands, one could not but wonder at "H.D.'s" reluctance to attack from the forecourt. On the few occasions that he did venture to the net, he almost always won the point as the result of some very crisp volleying.

THE GAME

The game started yesterday with Rumjahn serving. Games went with service until 2 all, both men at this stage were playing in a very tentative manner and were obviously content to get their strokes in working order. Tsui then broke through service to lead 4-2 and although H.D. won his next service game Tsui went out at 6-3.

The second set provided a great deal of excitement. H.D. playing beautiful tennis went to a three-ove lead and led 4-1, and 5-3 but Tsui was not to be denied. Exploiting an amazingly controlled drop-shot at every possible opportunity, he soon had his opponent completely demoralized and try as he would, "H.D." could not find a counter to it, that is, of course, when he reached the ball, which he simply gave up trying to do later on. Once Tsui had levelled the scores, the issue was never in doubt and after winning the set at 7-5 he proceeded to finish off the third set and the match at 6-3.

NO DULL MOMENTS

The game was never at any time dull to watch, both men timing their shots very well and a larger proportion of points were won as a result of cleverly planned attacks, than on errors made by the opposition.

Tsui was very sound all round and scored mostly on his drop-shot and cleverly angled volleys, although in this latter department, he made more errors than he is usually wont to do. "H.D." produced some most brilliant passing, frehand drives both up the sidelines and cross court, but his most telling stroke was a gently played very sharply-angled backhand to his opponent's forecourt.

The final result was: Tsui Wai Pui beat H. D. Rumjahn 6-3, 7-5, 6-3.

The heartiest congratulations are due to the authorities for their enterprise in installing an amplifier in order that the umpire could be plainly heard by all. This is an innovation which will do much to add to the enjoyment of watching competitive tennis in the future and was, I am sure, greatly appreciated by the capacity crowd present.

Tsui's record in winning the championship is appended: beat L.M.A. Razack 6-1, 6-2, beat S. W. Liang 6-3, 6-3, beat S. A. Gray 6-1, 6-2, beat T. N. Kwok 6-4, 6-3, beat S. A. Rumjahn (holder) 6-1, 6-1, 7-5.

Beat H. D. Rumjahn 6-3, 7-5, 6-3.

CHELSEA'S £10,000 OFFER WAS NOT ENOUGH

London. During last week Chelsea F.C. failed to secure the transfer of a player for whom they were prepared to pay in the region of £10,000, write a correspondent.

I mention this by way of contrast, and to show how the chronic shortage of good and experienced players has sent prices rocketing. Chelsea probably are responsible for the fact that after March 18 registrations and "transfers" of players may not be made without requiring the special sanction of the Football League Management Committee—a fact which accounts for the mild "rush" of transfers during the last few days.

In April 1910 Chelsea laid out what was then thought to be a fortune in obtaining star players in an attempt to avoid relegation. Within one week they started the football world by securing these transfers:

English McConnell, centre-half, from Sheffield Wednesday. Fee, £1000.

Marshall McEwan, outside-left, from Bolton Wanderers. Free, £1000.

Bob Whittingham, inside-right, from Bradford City. Fee, £1300.

P. Smith, centre-forward, from Crewe Alexandra. Free, £250.

K. McKenzie, centre-half, from Inverness Thistle. Fee £25.

So these five players cost Chelsea £3575. The sensation caused by the securing of these five players in April, all within about a week, was the red light to the clubs. It caused widespread discussion.

Some would have abolished transfers entirely but for the very logical arguments in its favour, and in any event the controversy died away shortly afterwards because the influx of star players did not save Chelsea. They duly went down. That is a story which, though in different circumstances has often been repeated since. Money alone does not buy success in football.

The fact that the Cup Final is certain to be played between a First Division and a Second Division team gives me some poignant interest. The last time it happened was when my own team, Birmingham, met West Bromwich Albion at Wembley, Albion, the Second Division team, won.

That was an all-Birmingham Final—with apologies to West Bromwich people for including them in Birmingham. Is this to be the first all-London Final?

NOT EASY FOR ARSENAL

Arsenal are the only team of the four with previous experience of the Final—a valuable asset. Their match with Grimsby should be a classic, though Grimsby have suffered a severe blow through the suspension of Betweed their centre-half. Betwell is a wonderful little schemer and Glover, the centre-forward, a thrustful and dangerous leader. Though I think Arsenal will win this will be no walkover. On the contrary, a hard game.

I have not seen Sheffield United this season, but am reliably told that their three inside forwards, Pickering, Dodds and Barlow, are

CHICAGO WIN

Two Home Runs By Klein

New York, Apr. 19.

There was some heavy scoring in the National League to-day. Chicago ran up sixteen runs against the Cincinnati Reds, and Chuck Klein gave the team two home runs.

For Cincinnati Lombardi, Rigbee and Goodman all hit circuit drives, but on the nine hits the Reds could only manage six runs. Chicago, on the other hand, had a run for each hit.

The Reds gave away four errors to Chicago's one.

The New York Giants beat Boston four to one in a listless game. The Giants bagged ten hits and each team had one error.

St. Louis beat Pittsburgh seven to three, scoring on twelve hits, including Moore's home run. Each side had an error.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

The New York Yankees got into their stride to-day against Washington Senators, winning by nine to one, with Johnson and Dickey contributing to the score with a home run each.

Detroit Tigers, last year's pennant winners, blanked Chicago in another American League fixture, led by Bobby Rowe, pitching ace, who scored six strike-outs. Goose Goslin hit a homer.

Detroit had nine hits to Chicago's five and gave away one error. Boston surprisingly beat Philadelphia by two to one, both teams hitting five times. The Philadelphians allowed two errors.

St. Louis was trounced by Cleveland, the Indians scoring thirteen runs, with Hale's homer, on fourteen hits. St. Louis scored six runs on 12 hits, and were charged with three errors.

Fulham have their fine players, too. I have every admiration for little Smith, the inside right, for Perry, the only man to score four goals in a Cup tie this season, for Gibbons and Keeping.

I would love to see an all-London Final, and have a special reason for wishing Mr. Jack Peart every success. He used to play for Sheffield United 27 years ago and we were good friends while he was there. As a matter of fact, he once signed for me when I was team manager of a certain club.

My feeling is that Sheffield United will just win their semi-final, and that they and Arsenal will meet at Wembley.

GERMAN ATHLETIC FEDERATION

("Hong Kong Daily Press" Special) Berlin, April 19. Since, over one century ago when "Turnvater Jahn" laid the foundation stone for athletics and physical culture in Germany, the dream of all sportsmen has been to see all sporting activities in Germany united under one organisation. This was at last achieved on Sunday, when an immense inaugural ceremony took place at the new Deutschland Hall, and the establishment of a German Athletic Federation was formally pronounced.

When, in 1933, Hitler became Chancellor, there were still over 300 independent Sports Organisations in the Reich. Patient reorganisation was therefore needed to achieve this amalgamation without destroying any great positive features already developed.

From now on all athletics, sports, physical culture can be developed uniformly in all parts of the Reich, and form part of the national education.

The event was celebrated with great rejoicing, 20,000 young people being addressed by the Reich's Sports Leader, von Tschammer und Oster, who unfolded the new Reich's Sports flag.

LOST BOSWELL PAPERS

Professor Abbott's Discovery

London. Professor C. Collier Abbott, of University College Durham, contributes the following to "The Times":—

It was my privilege, in 1930-31, while a lecturer in the University of Aberdeen, to be allowed to examine the miscellaneous documents scattered through a Scottish country house. I had particular reason for wishing to make the search, but, though I went with high hopes, the result belied my expectation. The full story of the finding must be left till later; but I am now free to make public the more important results of it.

Those who have read Professor Pott's preface to his "Catalogue of the Private Papers of James Boswell" (papers that went from Malahide to America) may remember that the late Geoffrey Scott, their first editor, spoke of the list of "established losses" as "long, tragic, and irrational." Professor Pott himself summarizes the matter thus:—

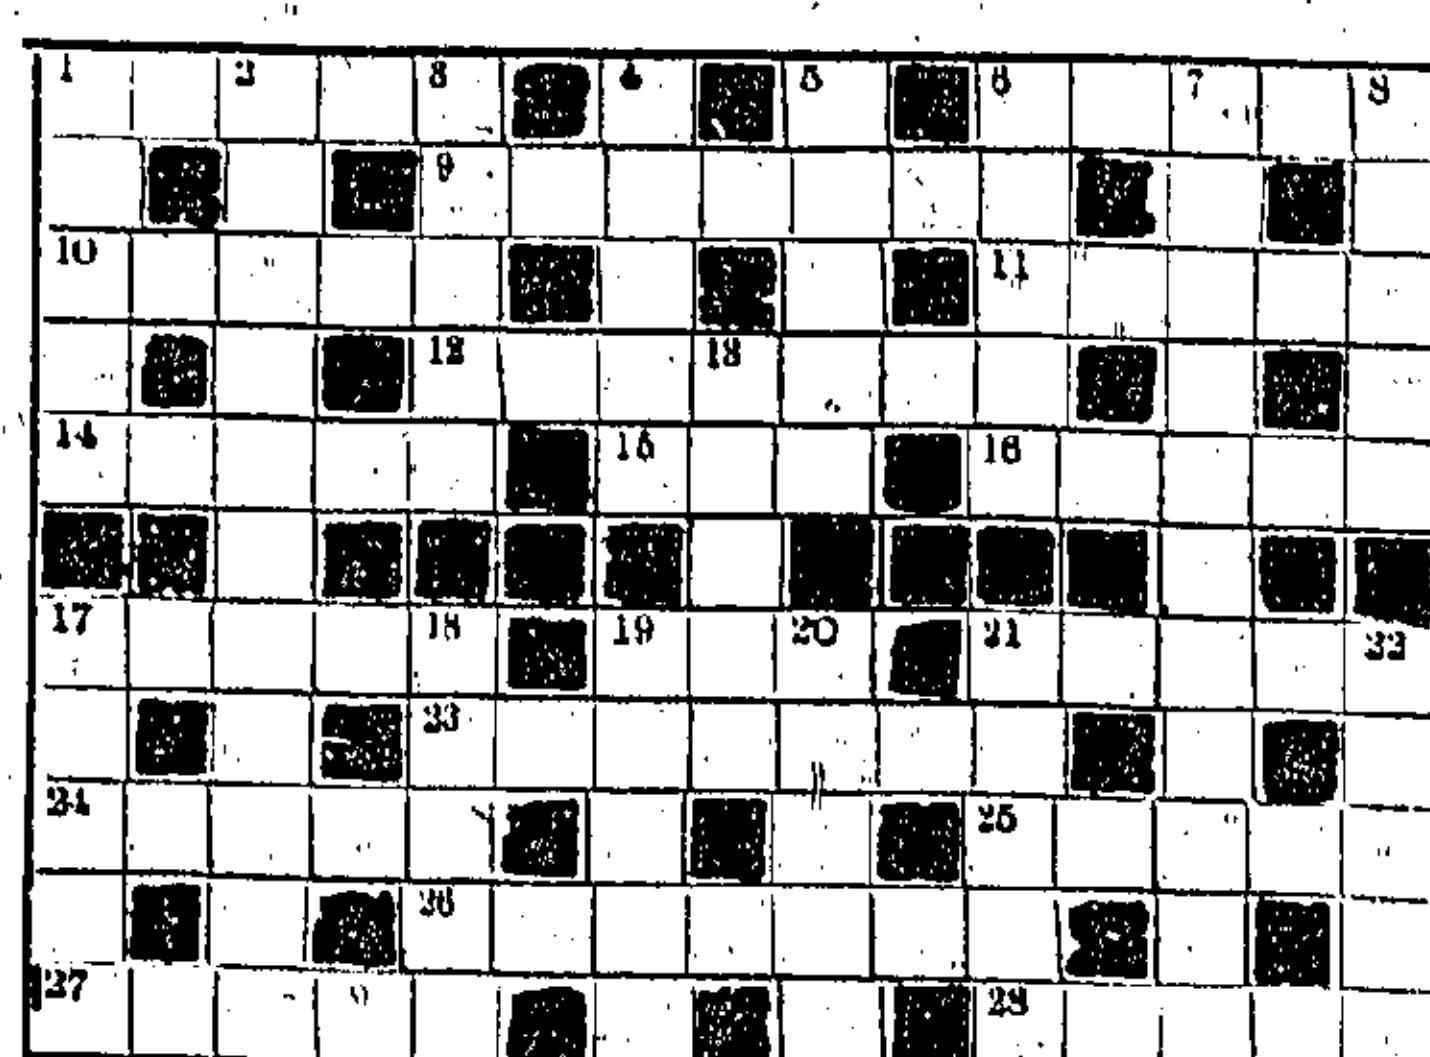

In short, the losses among the papers are what one would expect in a large, miscellaneous, and untidy collection, left probably by its owner in complete confusion, moved several times, subjected at least once to a house cleaning, improperly handled, imperfectly protected from dust and damp, and submitted (probably more than once) to a censorship of a capricious and arbitrary nature.

He found few gaps among the journals, but deplored the loss of much of Boswell's correspondence and many miscellaneous documents.

BUNDLES OF DOCUMENTS

Professor Pott's summary must have seemed a reasonable assumption, simply borne out by the catalogue itself. Yet when I read it first it had already been falsified. Most of the papers lamented as destroyed still existed. They were lost only because they had "not been found." By what looks like a miracle, damp and mice and fire had spared them. The many scholars who had worked on Johnson and Boswell seem to have forgot-ten Sir William Forbes, biographer and friend of Beattie, friend and executor, of Boswell. Or perhaps they had failed to trace him as I had failed till a fortunate clue led me where I found him preserved at full length in his great collection of papers, and with much more of Boswell than I expected, and something of Johnson. For, as I progressed from courtyard to attic, from corners, likely and unlikely, bundles and loose papers connected with Boswell were gradually assembled, until, in the end, what was found could be described as being almost the complement to the paper catalogued by Professor Pott, or, certainly a nearer approach to it than anyone had reason to expect.

A SHORT LIST
Only a short list of the most important documents can be given now. These are:—
(1) A number of Boswell manuscripts, among which are the London Journal (1762-63), complete and unmutated. In many ways the most interesting of all Boswell's part of the journal for 1778; the Northern Circuit Journal for Autumn, 1783; and two considerable registers of letters sent and received.

(2) The correspondence between Boswell and Forbes.
(3) Two hundred and eighty-seven drafts or copies of letters from Boswell, many in his own hand. Only a small number of the letters corresponding to these have been published.
(4) One thousand and thirty letters to Boswell. This is the main body of the letters written to Boswell. Most names in the story of the day are to be found here.
(5) One hundred and nineteen letters from Johnson to various correspondents. They are part of the material used by Boswell in the Life. Some are unpublished.

These, with a considerable number of miscellaneous documents and pamphlets, have been fully catalogued, copied (with one exception), and checked. The catalogue is in type, and the Oxford University Press hope to publish it in the course of 1936.

EMBEZZLEMENT ALLEGED

Sequel To A Partnership Deal

Tsang Foo, of No. 450 Portland Street, ground floor, appeared on remand before Mr. Q. A. A. Macfadyen at the Kowloon Magistrate's yesterday afternoon to answer a charge of having embezzled $407.70 and $291.85 from the Tsang Foo contractor's shop in which he and the complainant, Chan Kin-chun, were partners, between January 30, 1935, and October 17, 1935.

Mr. M. A. da Silva appeared for complainant and Mr. Peter H. Sin represented defendant.

Chan Kin-chun, the complainant in re-examination by Mr. Silva said he was afraid the defendant "would eat up the profits" and then sue him so he took action first.

The Magistrate asked witness if he realised that these were criminal proceedings. Witness had said in answer to his counsel firstly that the accused would eat up his profit and secondly that he was afraid that the accused would sue him.

In reply to the Magistrate witness said that he fully realised he had taken criminal proceedings because the accused had embezzled some money.

Mr. Silva then intimated that he would call his interpreter as the next witness.

WITNESS OBJECTED TO

Mr. Peter Sin, for the defence said that he objected to this procedure as the witness in question had sat at every hearing with the exception of yesterday's proceedings.

The Magistrate said that he could not see how the objection could be sustained if Mr. Silva decided on such a course.

Mr. Silva then said that his only reason for adopting this procedure was because of the extraordinary allegations made by the defence against his client.

Um Ka Sheung, interpreter said that the defendant came to Mr. Silva's office on December 19, after two letters had been written to him. The defendant said that he could explain satisfactorily certain discrepancies such as the Sanitary Department.

Witness informed Mr. Silva of defendant's claim, and he was informed by Mr. Silva to tell the defendant to see Chan Kin-chun. An appointment was arranged for December 22.

Cheung Chan, a grocer shop toki said that he had come down from Swatow to give evidence in the present case. On November 8, 1935, a man whom witness subsequently learnt was Tsang Foo (the defendant) asked him to write certain things in a book. The major part of the book was written in his (witness) own hand writing. Witness then identified the book when produced in Court.

NO CASE TO ANSWER

Addressing the Court, Mr. Sin submitted that his client did not have a case to answer. He could not see how the complainant could lodge a case of this description when he (complainant) did not have possession of all the books.

The Magistrate said that he had had great difficulty throughout the case in deciding about it. It really was one of the border line cases which might be taken summarily or criminally. However with the evidence produced by the prosecution he had come to the decision that a "prima facie" case had been made out. Therefore he (the Magistrate) would like to hear what the defence had to say.

"In that case" said Mr. Sin "I shall put my client in the witness box."

Tsang Foo, of No. 450 Portland Street, said that he met Chan Koon Yui, son of the complainant in the course of his work at the C.S.O., where he went to receive tenders. In answer to Chan Koon Yui witness said that he was interested in Sanitary Department work. The former suggested a partnership, if witness was successful in obtaining a tender.

Witness submitted his tender and ten days later a man visited his house. Four days later Chan Koon Yui came to his house and said that it would be a good idea if witness would co-operate with him. Witness was also told that any business below $200 did not require tenders.

DO HIS BEST

Chan said that he would do his best to get work for witness.

Mr. Peter Sin: Did you finally come into partnership with him?

—Yes, after a long talk. Witness was then taken to the "Ching Loong" Cafe, and after discussion it was decided that the business would be in two shares.

WIDOWS DEFRAUDED

False Promises Of Employment

A new method of making money was told in the Central Court yesterday when three men appeared before Mr. W. Schofield charged with (a) obtaining $75 from Li Yui, a widow, on March 23 by pretending to be in a position to obtain employment for her son, brother and nephew in the Shamshui Barracks, (b) obtaining $15 from Lam Ho, another widow, on March 20, under a similar pretext of being able to obtain employment for her brother, and (c) obtaining $25 from Choy Ho, married woman on March 21 pretending to be able to obtain employment for her son.

The defendants were Tsang Choy (38) unemployed, Lam Ho alias Li Fook (39), unemployed and Wan King (52) unemployed.

The first defendant admitted the first charge, the second admitted to all three but the third denied all.

Detective Inspector Dowman accepted the pleas and said that the third defendant did not know at the time that the first and second defendants were not in a position to get the employment for the complainants. He was accordingly discharged.

ADMITTED TRANSACTIONS

On Saturday a report was received by the Police from the complainants and that the third defendant was arrested at No. 6, Stone Nullah Lane. He admitted to the transactions and said that money had been handed over. The first defendant was subsequently arrested in Shamshui and the second in Marsh Road.

The first defendant admitted receiving $25 and the second admitted receiving $30. It was the work of the third defendant, stated the prosecution, to go out and find people who wanted work. All the transactions took place in the third defendant's house.

The first defendant was ordered to pay $25 or one month with an additional six weeks.

The second defendant was ordered to pay $30 or one month with an additional sentence of six weeks on each of the charges.

"PHANTOM AVENGER" AGAIN

The "Phantom Avenger" has returned.

North-West Durham's elusive fire raiser, who for six weeks terrorised the district last autumn, resumed his activities after a lapse of four months.

A 15-ton haystack belonging to Mr. W. Maddison, a farmer, at Catchgate, near Stanley, was found blazing. With the exception of two or three tons it was destroyed.

A message scribbled in chalk was discovered near the scene stating, "Beware the Phantom Avenger."

The writing is similar to that of other messages already being examined by the police, who are following a new line of inquiry in their efforts to trace one of the most persistent criminals of recent years.

The latest case brings the "Avenger's" total of fired haystacks up to 12. He has already done damage estimated at £5,000.

After the last rick-firing exploit attributed to the "Avenger" last November it was believed that police precautions had driven him from the district.

GOVERNOR ENTERTAINED

His Excellency the Governor, Sir Andrew Caldecott, was the official guest of honour at a luncheon party at the Sports Club yesterday. Forty-six persons, 15 of whom were visitors were in attendance.

"I said that I did not have much capital, only $200 or $300. He (Chan) said he would put up whatever was required."

Witness then said that later he obtained a letter from the Sanitary Department for $200 deposit, which he paid out of his own pocket. He received a second letter for a $50 deposit, which he showed to Chan Kook Yui.

Witness was introduced to the complainant on December 4, when he went to the latter's house, as the son had said that an agreement had been drawn out for all parties to sign. The son did not sign but the father (complainant) did.

The case is proceeding.

BEWARE OF FORGED $ NOTE

Glaring Points Of Discrepancy

According to information obtained at the Treasury Office, the forged $1 notes which have since been detected can be distinguished by the following comparisons:

Colour:—The forgeries are of light shade of purple (inclined to brownish), and the shading from purple to white is not gradual. The likeness of His late Majesty is blurred and the eyebrows are too pronounced. In comparing the framework of a forged note and a genuine one, many differences have been revealed. The dark shading in the forgery on the front and back sides is not deep enough. The green and orange tones are also more pronounced in the genuine note than in the forged one.

Numbering:—The bottom left-hand number is inclined to be too high in the forged bank note.

Paper:—This is stiff and possesses a "dead feeling."

Measurements:—The forged note on the front measures 113½ x 69 millimetres as against 115 x 69 millimetres on the genuine note.

Other Observations:—On the reverse side of the forgery there are two spots (claws) just above the "$1" sign on the left side.

HOUSEBREAKER GAOLED

Another case of housebreaking also appeared before Mr. S. F. Balfour at the Central Court when Wong Kam-chuen (21), unemployed was charged with breaking into No. 18 Connaught Road Central, first floor and stealing 188 dozen boxes of Indian Root Pills. Li Kam, (25), unemployed, was also charged with receiving same.

The first defendant pleaded guilty and the second not guilty. Li Kam was discharged the Police accepting his plea.

Detective-Sergeant Guild stated that on the morning of March 6 it was found that the door had been burst open and the nails withdrawn from the basp. Wong Kam-chuen, who was formerly employed as a lift boy, was suspected. He was arrested on Friday. Wong stated the actual thief had absconded to the country but he (Wong) took part in the crime.

He was sentenced to ten weeks' hard labour.

NO GUILTY KNOWLEDGE

Eight Chinese were brought up before Mr. Q. A. A. Macfadyen at the Kowloon Magistrate's yesterday charged on various counts with receiving a total of eighteen steel wash basins, the property of the Royal Welch Fusiliers. Detective Sergeant Forest, prosecuted and Corporal Rogers, of "C" Company appeared as the complainant.

All the accused pleaded that they were unaware of the fact that the wash basins had been stolen. They had bought them from a boy 15 years of age.

The prosecuting officer said that the only evidence of guilty knowledge he could prove was that they were purchased by a boy, and that the wash basins were not similar to the Japanese ones obtainable on the market.

In discharging the defendants the Magistrate said that so far as he was concerned the boy might have told the accused that he was selling them for his parents.

URGENT RECRUITING NEED

War Minister And Lord Rothermere's Example

London, There were loud cheers in the House of Commons in response to a reference by the Secretary for War, Mr. Duff Cooper, to the special effort by Viscount Rothermere and "The Daily Mail" to stimulate recruiting for the Regular Army, the Territorials, the Navy, and the Air Force.

Mr. Duff Cooper said: "We have recently been set a very fine example: Lord Rothermere—a gentleman with whom I have not always seen eye to eye—has made an announcement that he will give to every young man in his employment who joins the Territorials two weeks' full holiday in order to attend the camps, with full pay, without allowing in any way to interfere with such holiday as that employee would otherwise enjoy."

In a broadcast in the National Programme Mr. Duff Cooper repeated this tribute to Lord Rothermere, and added: "I believe that if 100 other employers were to follow this excellent example the problem would be solved."
